

Survey on Book and Booklet ?

12 years ago (in the year 2000), we carried out a survey on the need for the big book. Thousands responded.

2/3 of our audience wanted us to continue to provide it.

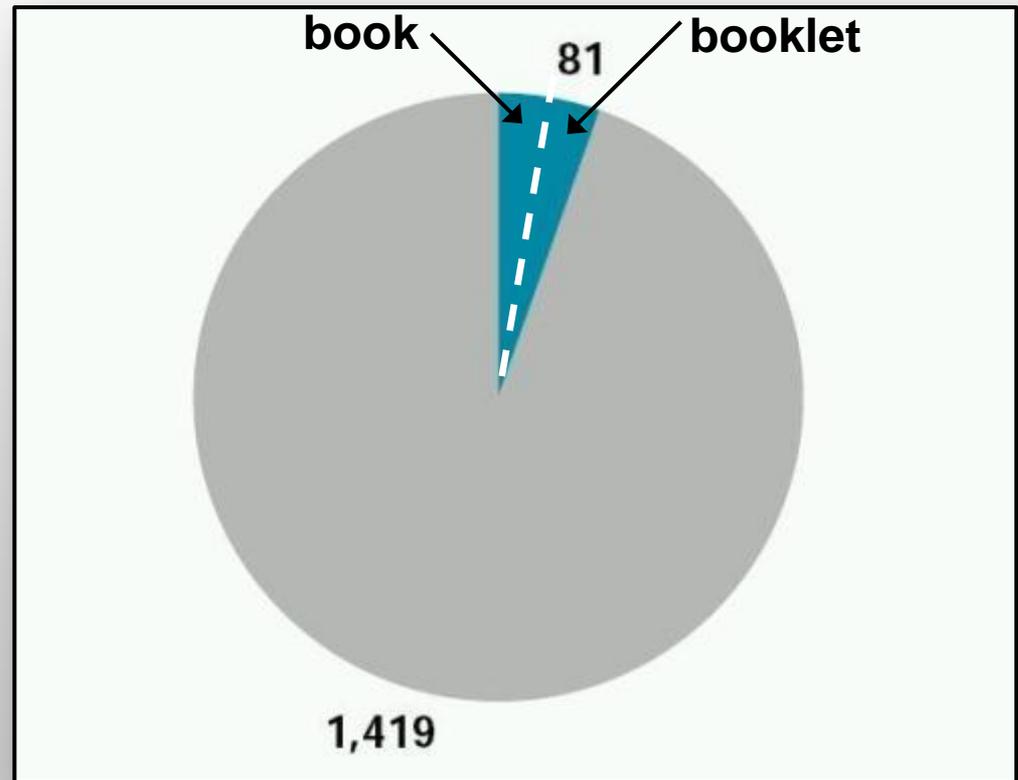

The younger people (graduate students and postdocs) wanted it more, because they use it more like a textbook.

The only thing new now is pdgLive.

The cost of Book and Booklet is a small part of the PDG budget.

What would we do if say 50% want it ?

What if it is 33% ?

What about the Booklet ?

No one carries it in their shirt pocket anymore.

It will soon be an app on your smartphone.

Many people do carry a smartphone in their pocket.

Should we produce a smaller book, without the Data Listings, so Summary Table and Reviews only ?

So do we do a survey or not ?

What would we ask ?

What would or could we get out of a survey ?
